BA thesis topics offered by the Department of English Applied Linguistics

Updated 13.09.2019

Albert, Ágnes
1. Task-based language learning from a psycholinguistic perspective
2. Contrasting speech production models
3. How does working memory relate to language aptitude?
4. The role of emotions in language learning
5. Contrasting third language acquisition theories

Csizér, Kata
1. The second language learning motivation of special needs students
2. Second language learning motivation in different educational contexts
4. The role of self-concepts in second language learning
5. Taking responsibility for the learning process: self-regulation and motivation

Dóczi, Brigitta
1. The role of word associations in SLA research
2. Features of spoken and written grammar
3. Aspects of testing vocabulary
4. The role of lexical chunks in language learning
5. Exploring the L2 mental lexicon

Eitler, Tamás
1. Social class and language use across Inner-Circle Englishes (NZ, Australia, UK, USA, Canada, Rep. of SA)
2. Dublin English social varieties: fashionable Dublin 4/DART, RTE/standard, traditional local north of Liffey and the Liberties
3. Tendencies in urban dialects in Britain/Australia/the USA
4. East Asian New Englishes: Singapore, Philippines, Hong Kong, India
5. Social networks and language use
6. Multicultural London English

Farkas, Árpád
1. English as a lingua franca
2. Pragmatics

Ford, Monika
1. Learner autonomy for international students in higher education
2. The relationship between cultural identity and accent

Illés, Éva
1. The pragmatics of business communication
2. English as a lingua franca in various fields of inquiry, including business, translation and the teaching of English
3. Linguistic landscape
4. Pragmatic issues in translation
5. English in Europe and within the EU
Katona, László
1. Persuasion and the media
2. Writing film reviews
3. Audiovisual translation
4. ESP: Natural sciences

Öveges, Enikő
1. Language policy in the EU: Trends and strategies
2. Language policy in Hungary: Trends and strategies
3. Students' needs in language learning

Németh, Nóra
1. Using mobile technology in language learning
2. ICT and motivation in language learning
3. Gamification theory and language learning
4. Language learning via e-learning
5. The connectivist theory of learning languages

Tankó, Gyula
1. Reading skills for academic purposes
2. Synthesising (skills)
3. Paraphrasing (skills)
4. Summarisation (choose your aspect; e.g., Summary writing as a language test task; Summary writing as a learning tool)
5. Language assessment
6. Mediation

For further topics, please contact DEAL faculty (http://deal.elte.hu/pages/faculty_staff.html).